Long ago, The Grand Octopus, a cosmic Being with divine powers, reigned supreme in the world... until an untoward combination of circumstances imprisoned Him on the ocean floor. He idly slept, dreaming of the day He would return to glory.

Thousands of years later, at long last, He was able to communicate with a few creatures that were more receptive than the others (we poor humans), weaving notions into our dreams: instructions to prepare for His return.

You are one of those elected, and you have recruited visionaries in order to form a cult dedicated to His glory. Now your dreams tell you that the time has come. Tonight the stars will align! You must perform the ritual to call Him to the surface to reign again.

You therefore must sneak into a celebrated English university for young savants tonight, in order to find the final magical components required to complete the ritual. Because tonight is the Night of the Grand Octopus!

Unfortunately, you are not alone....

In addition to these rules, you will find the following in this game:

- 1 gameboard representing the six principal Locations of the university: the library, the museum, the crypt, the laboratory, the observatory, and the botanical garden. Each of these Locations is numbered from 1 to 6.

- 1 Dagger of Power indicating the strength of each cult on a scale from 7 to 1.

- 2 two-sided boards, each side bearing a seventh Location that is situated outside the university (an Exterior Location): the Dimension of Dreams, Agoba Marsh, Colony of the Moon Men, and the Lost City.

- For each of the 5 cults: 1 Cultist pawn (representing the head of the cult, as well as its other members), 1 Offspring pawn (representing a monstrous creature, born of The Grand Octopus, and invoked by the cultists), 1 Cult Power marker, 1 Command Clock.

- 4 tokens for each type of Component (the objects necessary for completion of the ritual): grimoires, stone idols, skulls, potions, star charts, plants, silver keys.

Each player is the head of a cult dedicated to the Grand Octopus. Each group of cultists must scour the university in search of the four components necessary to complete the ritual that will allow Him to return to Earth. The first to succeed will invoke the Grand Octopus and thus have His favor.

Overview

Setup

- Place the gameboard in the middle of the table.

- Choose one of the four Exterior Locations, and place it beside the gameboard.

- Place the Dagger of Power near the gameboard.

- Each player chooses a cult color and gathers his cult’s material (2 pawns, 1 marker, 1 Clock).
• Place all the Cult Power markers on the Dagger of Power. Place them on the space equal to the number of players plus one.

• Place all the Cultist pawns on the library, the central Location on the gameboard.

• Each player keeps his Offspring pawn nearby.

• Place a number of Component tokens on each Location, equal to the number of players minus one:
  - Grimoires go in the library (1).
  - Stone idols go in the museum (2).
  - Skulls go in the crypt (3).
  - Potions go in the laboratory (4).
  - Star charts go in the observatory (5).
  - Plants go in the botanical garden (6).
  - Silver keys go in the Exterior Location.

Gameplay

The game is divided into a series of identical turns, during which all players play simultaneously. Each turn comprises a sequence of phases that you will resolve in the following order:

1 Choice Phase:

Secretly select the locations where you will send your Cultist and Offspring with the Command Clock. Point the tentacle on the large disc to the room number where you will send the Offspring. Point the dagger on the small disc to the room number for the Cultist.

You cannot send your Offspring and Cultists to the same Location.

The Offspring can always go anywhere on the central board. The Cultists, on the other hand, can only stay where they are, or move to an adjacent Location by following the stairs that connect to it. So, for example, it is impossible to go directly from the library to the botanical garden.

2 Revelation Phase

Once everyone is ready, all players reveal their choices. Move your Cultist and Offspring pawns according to your choices.

This cult dominates this Location. Place the Component token face-up prominently in front of the cult’s leader (the player).

3 Conflict Resolution Phase

During this phase, you will resolve conflicts by Location number (i.e. starting with the library, and ending with the Exterior Location). Several cases are possible:

- The Location has one or more Offspring, but no Cultists: Nothing happens... well, nothing that concerns us....
- The Location has one or more cults (represented by their Cultist pawns), as well as one or more Offspring: Nobody can gather anything, and each cult loses 1 point of Cult Power, due to the inevitable battle between them and the opposing Offspring! (Move their Cult Power markers down accordingly.) If your Cult Power drops to zero, your cult is eliminated; remove your Cultist pawn from the board (you’re out of the game). Leave your Offspring on the board until the end of the turn.
- The Location has several cults (represented by their Cultist pawns), but no Offspring: The cult leaders (players) there must negotiate to reach one of the following resolutions:
  - Nothing happens: The cultists eye one another without taking action.
  - One cults gathers a Component: One of the cults can gather a Component as if the other cults weren’t there (thus, it dominates this Location). The other cultists keep a low profile.
  - Confrontation: If either no agreement can be reached, or one players wants a confrontation, each cult present loses 1 Component.
4 Verification of Victory Conditions Phase

When a cult has gathered its fourth Component (and its Cult Power is at least 1 at the end of the turn), the game ends immediately. This cult is declared victorious.

If several cults have gathered their fourth Component, the cult that gathered a grimoire wins. For further tiebreakers, compare Components in the order of the Location numbers from which they come: stone idol, skull, potion, star chart, plant, and silver key. If it’s still a tie, the one with more Cult Power wins. If, after all this, there is still a tie, no one finds favor in the eyes of the Grand Octopus.

5 Revocation Phase

If no cult was victorious, each player removes his Offspring pawn from the board, and a new turn can begin. Each player’s Cultist pawn must stay on the board in its current location.

Talking, Whispering, and Betrayals

You are completely allowed to talk during the game to communicate intentions or to formulate an evil scheme to disrupt the plans of a cult that has gotten a bit too far ahead.

- Visiting an Exterior Location: The Command Clock does not allow you to directly designate an Exterior Location. To get there, you must point the tentacle and dagger in the same direction on your Clock — it doesn’t matter where they point. By doing this, the cultists perform the ritual that allows them to visit this Exterior Location, but as a result, the cult cannot invoke the Offspring this turn.

- Leaving an Exterior Location: To leave an Exterior Location, simply select two different locations with the tentacle and the dagger, as usual (the cultists can reappear in any university location, and invoke the Offspring at the same time). You could instead choose to remain in the Exterior Location by once again pointing the tentacle and dagger in the same direction.

However, you are not allowed to...

- ...whisper to one or more players. All discussions must be audible to all players. Similarly, you are not allowed to use secret codes or signs to communicate.
- ...directly show the position of the discs on your Command Clock without changing them thereafter. Nobody should have any certainty about other players’ choices.

On the other hand, you are completely allowed to lie, betray, and generally not keep your promises....
Errors Setting Your Clock

If you make a mistake setting your Command Clock, by indicating a Location your Cultists cannot reach, or by pointing the dagger “on the line” between two Locations, your Cultist pawn will not move during the Revelation Phase. However, the confusion caused by your command mistake has two consequences (lay the Cultist pawn down to remind you):

- You lose 1 point of Cult Power. Perhaps the cult leader has lost faith… or his mind?
- During the Conflict Resolution Phase, treat the Cultist pawn as if it is not in the location where it lies (the cultists are busy searching for the exit). This means that the cult cannot gather a Component this turn, cannot prevent another cult from doing so, and cannot participate in any negotiations. On the upside, the cult cannot suffer any further damage this turn (from Offspring or other cults).

Note that this is the only way that your Cultist pawn and Offspring pawn can end up in the same place. If this happens, you must separate your Cultists and Offspring pawns next turn.

The Different Exterior Locations

Dimension of Dreams

The Dimension of Dreams is a parallel dimension you can enter through dreaming, or through one of the rare physical passages that are found in unexpected places. Although these lands can be dangerous for the inexperienced traveler, they offer numerous opportunities for those who know how to make the most of the situation. Thus, any good cult leader would take advantage of his stay to recruit a few additional members to ensure the longevity of his cult.

- If your Cultist pawn is in the Dimension of Dreams at the end of the Conflict Resolution Phase, you can gain 1 point of Cult Power (up to a maximum of 7); however, this is impossible if you lost a point of Cult Power (due to a conflict) or if you gathered a silver key this turn (if you dominated the Location, you must choose between gaining a cultist or gathering this Component).

The Dimension of Dreams allows for slightly longer games, and a little more tactics. By recruiting cultists, players can prolong the game, and avoid direct elimination. But be careful not to fall too far behind while you daydream….

Agoba Marsh

Agoba Marsh is a place whose exact location remains a mystery. Many travelers claim they’ve encountered it in different parts of the world, on other planets, or even in other dimensions. One possible explanation is that the Agoba Marsh lies at the junction between worlds, everywhere and nowhere at the same time.

- If you dominate this Location, regardless of whether you gathered a silver key, you may exchange one of your Components for one belonging to another cult. The end result must respect the rules: Neither cult can end up with two copies of the same Component.

Although the effects of Agoba Marsh are subtle and do not significantly affect the game length, they do promote interaction with the leading players, and thus infuse more twists into the game.

Colony of the Moon Men

Although the surface of the Moon has long kept no secrets from humanity, the same is not true for what goes on below the surface. There a race of extraterrestrials has established a colony to monitor the human race and to acquire fresh specimens for their terrifying experiments.
A cult leader would not hesitate to sacrifice one of his followers in exchange for a few favors....

Lost City

A mysterious island, engulfed by waves, the Lost City is the dwelling of the Grand Octopus Himself. Normally, the mere sight of its non-Euclidean architecture would be enough to drive a mind completely mad. Tonight, the consequences could be even more disastrous....

• If you dominate this Location, and you forgo gathering a silver key, you may sacrifice one of your cultists (lose 1 point of Cult Power) to designate another cult for the extraterrestrials to target. That player must immediately discard one of his Components (of his choice), returning it to its original Location.

Controlling the Colony of the Moon Men offers a very important advantage over all the other cults. You can rebalance a game when another cult has taken a decisive lead. Warning! Although games using this location become very tactical, they also promise to be long and full of twists and turns!

• During the Conflict Resolution Phase, just before determining what happens in the Lost City, each cult in this cursed place loses 1 point of Cult Power. Then finish this phase as usual.

Unlike the other Exterior Locations, the Lost City is dangerous, but yields no benefit to the cults that dare venture there (other than to provide a silver key). This increases the likelihood that most cults will remain in the university, which will make the conflicts there more intense.

Credits

Designer: Frédéric Morard
Illustrator: Jean-Baptiste "Djib" Reynaud
Graphic Design: Origames

U.S. Project Manager: Jeff Quick
Translation and editing: Nathan Morse & Russell Grieshop

Thanks:
"I thank all those who have worked on summoning this Night: Frédéric, Jean-Baptiste, Igor, Guillaume, Cédric, Patrice, Stephan, Carole, Anouk, Hector, and all the players who gathered around an octopus-esque table.” The Publisher

"I thank Delphine, who supported by daily nonsense, the members of the Legends of Other Words club, Antoine, who believed in the project from the very beginning, and most of all, Him, Him who sent me this game in a vision, one dark, insomniac night.” The Designer

Publisher: Superlude
26, Ermitage de Sénart
91330 Yerres, FRANCE

Website:
www.superlude.fr

Jeu en anglais. Importé au Canada par IELLO USA LLC

Distribution North America: IELLO USA LLC, 5550 Painted Mirage Rd., Suite 320, Las Vegas, NV 89149, USA.

Distribution Europe: IELLO, 9 Avenue des Érables - Lot 341 54180 Heillecourt FRANCE

©2014 IELLO USA LLC. IELLO and its logo are trademarks of IELLO USA LLC.

©2014 SUPERLUDE. SUPERLUDE, NIGHT OF THE GRAND OCTOPUS, and their logos are trademarks of SUPERLUDE.

©2014 ORIGAMES. ORIGAMES and it’s logo are trademarks of ORIGAMES.

Warning: This product contains small parts that can be swallowed and may not be suitable for use by children under 36 months.

THIS PRODUCT IS NOT A TOY. NOT INTENDED FOR USE BY PERSONS 3 YEARS OF AGE OR YOUNGER.

Made in China by Whatz Games